“Why it’s important to wax your car’s paint often.”

Your car is being constantly bombarded by contaminants each and everyday. All of these contaminants take a toll on your car’s paint if the finish is not frequently washed and waxed. Imagine what would happen if you only brushed your teeth once a year. The buildup could lead to costly dental repairs. And your teeth might never look as good as they did before.

Your car’s paint is constantly exposed to the elements and needs regular care to keep it looking its best at all times. If you neglect your car’s finish for a long enough time, a quality repaint could easily cost $4,000. If you decide to sell your vehicle without a new paint job, it could cost you anywhere from $500 to $5,000 in lost trade-in value, depending upon the age and type of automobile you have.

“You can expect from $500 to $5,000 more at resale time from a well-detailed, sharp-looking vehicle, instead of one that’s ‘showing its age.’ (Actually more for exotics and collectible cars.)”
